J.S. Formally Pledges to Give Okinawa Rule Back to Japan

By Selig S. Harrison. TOKYO, June 17 (UPI).—The United States formally pledged today to return Okinawa to Japan in a controversial agreement reaffirming the continued presence of the island as the pivotal heretofore base complex in the western Pacific.

The President said: "The friendship and mutual respect which enabled our negotiators to solve the many difficult issues... The agreement signifies the next to the last step leading to your labor Retains Seat by a Wide Margin.

EEC Vote Set in Fall For Britain

Decision on Entry Up to Commons

By Anthony Lewis. LONDON, June 17 (NYT).—The House of Commons will make its great decision on whether to bring Britain into the European Common Market next fall.

Prime Minister Edward Heath announced the timetable today to a crowded House. It involves a long series of debates and legislative decisions looking toward British membership on Jan. 1, 1973.

The crucial vote will come after Parliament returns from its summer recess, probably toward the end of October. In the government will be asking for approval, in principle, of the terms negotiated with the six present market members.

That date represents something of a concession by the prime minister. In the first flush of enthusiasm after his successful meeting with President Georges Pompidou of France last month, he toyed with the idea of a definitive vote before the recess.

DANIEL ELLSBERG—Reportedly the source of the "leak" on the Pentagon's study of Vietnam involvement by the U.S.

Daniel Ellsberg Named Pentagon Ex-Aide Is Called Source of Leak to N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, June 17 (UPI).—Sidney Zion, a former New York Times reporter, claimed yesterday that the newspaper obtained its copy of a secret Pentagon report on the Vietnam war from Daniel Ellsberg, who in 1965 was special assistant to John T. McNaughton, assistant defense secretary for international security affairs.

Officials of The Times had "no comment" on Mr. Zion's assertion. The Pentagon confirmed that Mr. Ellsberg had worked on the 47-volume study, which was supervised by Mr. McNaughton under instructions from Robert S. McNamara, who was then defense secretary. Mr. Mc-

Naughton died in a plane crash in 1967. Mr. Ellsberg currently works at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Center for International Studies, where he specializes in Southeast Asia. Mr. Ellsberg was not available for comment on the claim. A UPI reporter who went to his Cambridge apartment said that a staff of newspapers and mail outside indicated that Mr. Ellsberg had not been there in several days.

Mr. Ellsberg's brother, Harold Ellsberg, a New York insurance executive, told Westchester-Rockland newspapers today that he last saw his brother six months ago. Declaring that the two of them had never talked of the Pentagon study, Mr. Harold Ellsberg said, "He probably wouldn't tell me anything because he wouldn't want me to be on the spot. If it was Dan, I hope other people are as sympathetic to what he has done as I am to Dan—or whoever has done this."

His brother at one time "strongly supported the U.S. war policy" in Vietnam, Harold said, but changed his mind after working as a civilian aide on the staff of Gen. Edward Lansdale in Vietnam.

Mr. Ellsberg had a 180-degree turnabout—that's how he expressed it to (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

GI War Toll Last Week: 25

SAIGON, June 17 (UPI).—American battlefield deaths rose to 25 last week and 189 soldiers were wounded, the U.S. command said today. Combat deaths jumped from the previous week's toll of 19 killed, which was the lowest for a weekly period in five-and-a-half years.

Command figures showed that since Jan. 1, 1961, a total of 45,273 U.S. soldiers have died in Indochina fighting, while 9,399 have died as a result of noncombat causes. The number of wounded during the period was put at 300,123.

N.Y. Times to List Documents

Court Delays Decision On Return of 'Secrets'

By Natalie Layzell. NEW YORK, June 17 (UPI).—The New York Times voluntarily gave the federal government today a list of the top secret Pentagon documents used in its series on the Vietnam war. Michael D. Hess, the chief of the civil division in the U.S. attorney's office in New York, acknowledged receipt but had no other comment on the matter.

He gave no indication whether the government would be satisfied being able to inspect the documents themselves. U.S. District Judge Murray I. Gurfein said that he did not expect to announce until tomorrow a decision on the government's motion for him to order The Times to deliver its copies of the documents to the court for examination.

Judge Gurfein had urged The Times to cooperate voluntarily on the list. Earlier today, he had shelved the newspaper's motion to examine the newspaper's files on the data, saying: "I'm not tolerating any fishing expedition into the files of any newspaper."

Mr. Hess had said earlier that the government would agree to accept the documents minus the marginal notes that might give clues to the identity of the person who turned them over to The Times. Mr. Abrams, however, said that The Times was still unwilling to release them for government inspection.

Mr. Hess told Judge Gurfein: "We are not sure, but I think they are original documents." But affidavits presented by Mr. Abrams asserted that the court that The Times has Xerox copies that bear marginal handwritten notes that might disclose The Times' confidential source.

The government fired the new salvo in its battle with The Times last night when it asked that the newspaper's attorneys appear in court this morning to give reasons why it should not be ordered to produce the 7,000-page document. Attorney General John N. Mitchell has claimed that publication caused "irreparable injury to the national defense."

On Tuesday, after The Times had published three parts of its highly controversial series since Sunday, Judge Gurfein granted

SAIGON, June 17 (UPI).—Disclosures Discomfit Allies But Few Complain Officially. WASHINGTON, June 17 (UPI).—Publication of secret messages on American involvement in the war is causing embarrassment for several U.S. allies. There is no mass rush to the State Department by indignant foreign diplomats, however, official sources acknowledged. Only a few envoys, not yesterday, had made any inquiries at State or had registered their disapproval.

One U.S. source, speaking of the allied nations mentioned in the documents, said: "I think it is fair to assume that they will feel discomfited by this—but not make official representations" in most cases, "even though they are uncomfortable."

Canada and South Vietnam were among the few nations that so far even raised the problem at State.

The embarrassment is shared at least equally by U.S. officials. It has been exposed to accusations that it was manipulating allied nations to involve them in the war—a charge that was promptly raised in the Australian press yesterday.

The documents published by The New York Times contain many comments that nations normally never make in public about their allies, such as the fact that the United States has favorites, trusts some more than others and engages in other discriminatory acts. All nations generally know this about each other.

(Continued on Page 2, Col. 4). Newspaper Al Ahram Fears War. RIAD, June 17 (UPI).—Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad was quoted today as saying U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers tried to "delude" Egyptian officials during his recent peace mission to the Middle East. In an interview with the newspaper Le Monde, Mr. Riad was asked, "What are the chances of negotiations on reopening the Suez Canal?" The foreign minister replied: "In fact, there never were any negotiations... This is again American propaganda. Secretary of State Rogers speaks of an intermediary solution... In fact, this is poison wrapped up in sugar... We asked Mr. Rogers three questions in return for which we received what we will henceforth call the 'three nos.' Can you put pressure on Israel? He replied no. Can you stop your military and civil aid to Israel? He replied no. Can you support an action of the four big powers before the Security Council to oblige Israel to give in? He responded no. Mr. Riad added: "We then ask-world public opinion," Mr. Riad said. "New Phase" Starting. CAIRO, June 17 (UPI).—Egypt has despaired of U.S. efforts to work out a Middle East peace settlement and hostilities may resume soon at the Suez Canal, Cairo's foremost political commentator believes. Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, editor of the semi-official Al-Ahram newspaper, said the Middle East crisis was entering a new phase because the United States either could not or would not pressure Israel into withdrawing from occupied Arab land.

The Middle East area, including Egypt, seems to be on the threshold of grave developments. "It is not within anybody's capacity to foretell when the silent guns of Suez will go into action. But there is a general feeling that the silence... cannot last for long. "A new phase is about to start... because the period of 'intention-testing' required by the U.S. has exhausted itself."

Nixon Asks for Anti-Drug Funds To Act in 'National Emergency'

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP).—Labeling drug abuse "a national emergency," President Nixon today asked Congress for an extra $155 million to "tighten the noose around the necks of drug peddlers and thereby loosen the noose around the necks of drug users."

In a special message, Mr. Nixon called for new efforts to rehabilitate drug victims, while increasing moves to cut off the supply of illicit narcotics on an international scale.

Mr. Nixon described drug abuse as "public enemy No. 1," and said he considered the problem so urgent that the fight against it must be coordinated by one responsible authority reporting directly to the President.

He said use of drugs by U.S. servicemen in Vietnam is "especially disheartening." He announced the immediate establishment of a rehabilitation program for addicted servicemen being returned from the war zone.

And he asked Congress to give the Pentagon legislative authority to keep uniformed personnel in service beyond normal discharge dates if they are addicts.

Cost of Addiction
Citing statistics, Mr. Nixon estimated the cost of supporting a drug habit as ranging from $10,000 to more than $36,000 a year.

"The financial costs of addiction," he said, "are more than two billion dollars every year, but these costs can at least be measured. The human costs cannot. American society should not be required to bear either cost."

To coordinate federal activities in research and education in the area, Mr. Nixon announced creation by executive order of a special action office of drug abuse prevention within the White

U.S. Ponders A-Arms Move Off Okinawa Storage Sites Said To Be Guam, Asia, U.S.

By William Beecher
WASHINGTON, June 17 (NYT).—The Defense and State Departments have proposed to the White House that hundreds of tactical nuclear weapons now stored on Okinawa be moved to existing storage sites on Guam and in South Korea, Taiwan, the Philippines and the United States.

Well-placed officials say the joint recommendation calls for a quick decision because of the need to remove the weapons prior to April 1, 1972, when control of Okinawa and the other islands in the Ryukyu chain is expected to revert to Japan.

The recommendation, they say, represents a compromise between those who wanted to transfer most of the Okinawa-based weapons to forward positions in Asia, and those who wanted to withdraw most to the United States.

Officials say they have urged haste because of the time-consuming procedures necessary to pack and ship the weapons and to construct a limited number of new storage facilities, particularly on Guam.

Among the weapons involved, sources say, are nuclear bombs, artillery shells, tactical ground-to-ground rockets, atomic land mines, atomic depth charges, six-to-six missiles and surface-to-air missiles.

Annual Review
All decisions on the deployment of nuclear weapons outside the United States, under law, are reserved to the President. Each year he reviews global deployments, normally making minor shifts. This year, because of the Okinawa question, major decisions are called for.

At one point in the debate, officials say, some military planners had urged that a large portion of the weapons be shifted to forward locations in places like South Korea. They argued that, with the reduction of American ground forces throughout Asia, the augmentation of tactical nuclear stocks would help to maintain deterrence against aggression by Communist China or North Korea.

Other officials, both in the Pentagon and the State Department, insisted that the stationing of additional nuclear weapons on the rim of Asia could create more problems than they solved. These officials argued that putting too many weapons too far forward might present the President one day with a choice of authorizing the use of the weapons or risking their being overrun.

U.S. Woman Survives Fall of 2,800 Feet

IOWA CITY, June 17 (Reuters).—A 25-year-old woman survived a 2,800-foot fall to earth when her parachute failed to open properly.

"I was sure and glad to be alive. I really thought I was going to die," Mrs. Eberly Ozburn said yesterday in a hospital where she was listed in good condition after the fall Tuesday.

She crushed a vertebra, but did not lose consciousness. Mrs. Ozburn was making her fourth jump when her main parachute failed to open and her emergency chute became tangled in it. She managed to get one parachute partly open at 500 feet.

Court Bars Democrats' Plan For Convention Delegations

By Sanford J. Ungar
WASHINGTON, June 17 (WP).—A federal judge yesterday rejected the Democratic party's four-month-old compromise formula for apportionment of state delegates to its 1972 national convention, declaring that it is "discriminatory" and does "not meet the tests of a rational basis."

Ruling orally, immediately after hearing both sides in a suit brought by the Democratic party organizations of New York, California and the District of Columbia, U.S. District Court Judge June L. Green agreed with the groups that delegates should be apportioned on a strict basis of party strength in each state.

The rejected delegate formula, announced by the Democratic party last February after two years of debate, apportioned about half the convention delegates on a state's strength in the electoral college and half on the state's Democratic votes in the last presidential election.

It was a compromise with the demands of the party organizations of the smaller states, which automatically stand to benefit from a formula based partially on the electoral college.

Attorney Joseph L. Rauh Jr., who represented the plaintiffs in the lawsuit, immediately predicted that the pure party-strength formula, dubbed "one Democrat-one vote," would mean "hundreds more" liberal delegates at the Democratic convention next year.

The Democratic National Committee, obviously stunned by Judge Green's prompt ruling after arguments yesterday afternoon, said it would appeal at once to the U.S. Court of Appeals here.

The directive to write God in small letters is the cheapest kind of atheistic pettiness. . . . When the Regional Procurement Administration is written with capital letters or the KGB in all caps then we might at least employ one capital letter to designate the highest creative force in the universe.

By Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn

THIS book cannot at the present time be published in our native land except in a secret (privately circulated typescript) because of censorship objections unintelligible to normal human reason and which, in addition, demand that the word God be unforgivably written without a capital letter. To this indignity I cannot stoop.

The directive to write God in small letters is the cheapest kind of atheistic pettiness. Both believers and unbelievers must agree that when the Regional Procurement Administration is written with capital letters or KGB or ZAGZ (the secret police or city registration bureau) are written in all caps then we might at least employ one capital letter to designate the highest creative force in the universe.

Not to add that on the lips next in the understandings of the people of 1914 the word "God" in small letters grates on the ears and is historically false.

The general design revealed in this first part (of the novel) came to me in 1936 when I was finishing high school. Up to the present time I have never deviated from it, viewing this as the chief artistic design of my life. I have been diverted to other books only by the peculiarities of my career and richness of contemporary impressions.

I have continued to prepare myself and gather material solely for this one purpose. And already it is almost too late. My own life and creative imagination are not sufficient for this 20-year work, and contemporary witnesses of these events have almost all died, those who could correct me, who would enrich my work and advise me on that which has not been written down and has not been preserved. In my own country all collections of material, open to others, are barred to me.

Russian writers, older than myself, either concentrate for the most part on our more recent history or slip over the rest superficially. And there is even less hope that it can be written by those younger than myself or that in the future it will be possible to re-create these years when even for my generation this is virtually impossible. So I must carry on.

The first segment of my work I am now publishing for Russian readers abroad with a simultaneous plea for criticism, corrections and supplements, especially with regard to historical personages on whom I have little material: on Generals A.D. Nezhvolodov, Martos, Krymov, Posmovsky, Filimonov, Artamonov, V.I. Gurko, Savitskiy; Colonels Kabanov, Pervushin, Kakhovsky, Ishev, Khristich; Lt. Col. Sukhachevskiy, the Cossack Captain Vedernikov, and Staff Captain Stenochkin.

I would be grateful for any unpublished materials relating to subsequent years but strictly with respect to the following places: Petrograd, Moscow, Tambov, Rostov-on-Don, Novocherkassk, Kislovodsk-Pyatigorsk. All the remaining places not embraced in my design long ago have been put away in books and files.

I am hopeful that the publishers may take upon themselves the work of collecting for me any materials that are sent in.

By Tad Szulc
WASHINGTON, June 17 (NYT)—The United States and the Soviet Union began exploring yesterday the possibility of East-West negotiations on a mutual reduction of forces in Europe.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, on whose request the meeting was held, conferred for 40 minutes this afternoon with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin to try to determine when, where and in what manner Moscow would be ready to open discussions on a mutual and balanced cut in troop levels by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw Pact.

State Department officials disclosed no details of the conversation, but described it as "an exchange of views useful to both sides."

They said that Messrs. Rogers and Dobrynin agreed to continue these talks in the future, though no date was set for the next meeting. Officials said yesterday's discussion was "preliminary" and cautioned that NATO and the Warsaw Pact were "some distance" from opening actual negotiations.

A-Talks Bid Noted
During the meeting Mr. Rogers took note without any comment of a Soviet communication received earlier yesterday by the U.S. government in what appeared to be a revival of Moscow's earlier proposal for a nuclear disarmament conference involving the United States, the Soviet Union, China, Britain and France.

Mr. Rogers had announced on Tuesday his plans to meet with Mr. Dobrynin to explore Soviet views on a mutual reduction of forces in Europe, emphasizing that the United States stood ready to enter into negotiations. Officials here stressed, however, that Mr. Rogers was acting on behalf of both the United States and NATO, just as Mr. Dobrynin had been expected to speak both for Moscow and its Warsaw Pact allies.

Washington's policy is to coordinate all its moves on opening negotiations on the European forces reduction with the other members of the North Atlantic alliance.

Even before the Rogers-Dobrynin meeting, this subject was reviewed at length in conferences Tuesday between President Nixon and the visiting West German Chancellor Willy Brandt. NATO has also scheduled a meeting of its deputy foreign ministers for September to elaborate a joint position toward the Warsaw Pact powers.

Caution at SALT Urged
WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, urged yesterday a U.S. attitude of caution toward arms talks with the Soviet Union. He said continued development of missiles and bombers is necessary "to hedge against the possibility of a breakdown" in the negotiations.

Adm. Moorer was the opening witness in hearings by the Senate disarmament subcommittee on the relationship between the U.S. strategic posture and the strategic arms limitation talks.

He said: "The over-all strategic balance, during the last five or six years, has drastically shifted in favor of the Soviet Union. Our comfortable lead has now all but vanished, and within the next five or six years we could actually find ourselves in a position of over-all strategic inferiority certainly as far as numbers of offensive delivery vehicles and weapons, and air defense systems, are concerned."

Soviet Scientists Envisage 100-Man Factories in Space

MOSCOW, June 17 (UPI)—Soviet scientists today visualized future "space factories" of 100 workers, with water carried up to them through laser beams from earth.

Scientific commentaries, written in connection with the mission of the three-man Salyut space station, discussed ambitious future plans for building stations that will produce perfectly round ball bearings and special metal-plastic alloys.

Lt. Col. Georgy Dobrovolski, Ladislav Volkov and Viktor Patuyev have spent 11 days in orbit so far, most of the time aboard the first manned orbital space station, Salyut.

The commentaries today said the mission is the precursor of a flying factory-laboratory, where crews will spend as long as a year carrying out manufacturing processes that can only be done in the weightless vacuum of space.

One of the commentaries, written by Fyodor Antonov, in the newspaper Socialist Industry, said the problem of supplying water to the orbital stations may be solved by laser beams.

Principal Way
"The transportation of water vapor inside a luminous laser beam will possibly become one of the principal ways to provide the crews of long-duration orbital stations with water," Mr. Antonov said.

The engineer did not elaborate on how such a system might work.

A cosmonaut, Yevgeny Khrunov, in the newspaper Moskovskaya Pravda, said that "in the not so distant future," there will be orbital stations with as many as 12 crewmen on board at one time.

"Space factories is a dream that does not seem so unreal," he said.

"If you put several such stations in orbit and dock them, you will have a base of 50 to 100 persons, with moorings for transport ships."

Mr. Khrunov said factories in space will be able to produce items that are difficult or impossible to fashion on earth.

U.S., Russian Space Experts To Negotiate

SPACE CENTER, Houston, June 17 (AP)—Soviet and U.S. space officials will begin negotiations here Monday toward establishing docking systems which would permit spacecraft from the two nations to link up in orbit, the Manned Spacecraft Center said today.

The announcement said scientists and engineers from the Soviet Union will meet with American experts in three working groups at the Manned Spacecraft Center in an effort to develop compatible space craft docking systems.

Officials said Working Group I will assure compatibility in rendezvous and docking; Working Group II will develop compatible radio guidance and optical systems and Working Group III will develop docking assemblies.

The meetings are expected to last five days.

It's an easy trip to make. Whether you're in Europe for business or pleasure, family or friends in America are closer than you think.

And the cost is low—by telephone. For example, as little as $6.75 plus tax for a three-minute station-to-station call from France. A three-minute station-to-station call from England is as little as $4.05 plus tax. From Italy, as little as $5.10 plus tax.

Calling the U.S.A. is the next best thing to being there—and it's the cheapest way to get there.

Coming: 2 King Lear

By Thomas Quinn Curtiss
PARIS, June 17 (UPI)—"King Lear" is about to make a comeback on the screen. After Robert B. Mantell "acted" the deposed ruler of ancient Britain before the cameras (minus only the bellow because movies were silent), film literary departments decided that "Lear" was "not for the flickers." That verdict has been reversed and during the coming seasons we will see two versions.

Yuri Jarvet as Lear in the Russian film.

Kozintsev is a gifted cineaste as well as a perceptive director of drama. The barbaric background of "Lear" is stressed pictorially, ancient Britain being harshly suggested by views of the bleak towers of Ivanogorod, the old Boyar town of the dark waters of the Nariva River of the Crimean steppes and of the gorges of Daghestan. The scene is set at once and its severe desolation is in harmony with the grim, inexorable action.

Social Gathering With Serious Intent

By Hebe Dorsey

PARIS, June 17 (UPI)—Jeanne Moreau sang in a soft, sexy voice, Pierre Fresnay recited poems, Lagoya drew tender, anguished notes from his guitar and some 500 well-heeled culture lovers strolled out $50 each to help promote the Abbaye de Royaumont as France's first American-style foundation.

Jeanne Moreau sings at the $50-a-plate dinner at the abbey.

The black-tie crowd was very much Paris top drawer—three ambassadors, including British Ambassador Christopher Soames, French minister Jacques Baumel, Baron and Baronne de Calrol, Baron and Baronne Rie de Rothschild, Baron and Baronne Van Zuylen, Pierre Cardin, Princesse de Polignac, Mrs. Hervé Alphonse, Prince Michel de Grèce and his wife Marina and Commandant Paul-Louis Weiller turned up, despite cold weather, to have an al fresco Maxim's dinner and see the show.

Six years ago, Mr. Goin turned Royaumont into a foundation "because, quite simply, we couldn't afford to swing it alone," his daughter, Mrs. Philippe Daudy, said. Mrs. Daudy and her husband took over a year ago and are working hard to introduce the foundation idea to the French public. They have big plans and three targets: scientific, artistic and educational.

By Waverley Root

PARIS (UPI)—We put the paper to bed at 2:30 a.m. and I sallied forth into the dark Rue Lamartine. The paper was the Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune, which in 1934 disappeared into the Hearst Tribune, and the year was 1930. It was time for my nightly trek from Right to Left Bank.

'Its most spectacular segment was Les Halles...infinitely more exciting then.'

I loved every inch of that walk, but its most spectacular segment was Les Halles. It was infinitely more exciting than that it was after World War II when I wondered why tourists still bothered to go there in the early hours of the morning for the traditional onion soup. It must have been a force of habit. There is nothing very inspiring about a crate of vegetables, or even a thousand crates of vegetables. In the prewar days, nobody had heard of crates. Unpackaged vegetables filled the sidewalks, built up into a colorful architecture of red pyramids (radishes), green cubes (cabbages) or purple parallelepipeds (eggplant).

When I visited it recently. All about it food shops and cafes were boarded up and deserted. All that remained of its former bubbling activity was the small retail market tucked away in a corner of one of its once crowded pavilions, and the butchers, who are still there, not having been moved with the rest out near the Orly airport to the modern market at Rungis.

There is a new animation in one corner, though—the Paris version of the East Village Buildings, abandoned by tenants whose activity has moved to Rungis or condemned to be torn down in the reconstruction of the quarter, offer apartments for next to nothing. The impecunious young have swarmed in to take advantage of the opportunity. The costumes are colorful—perhaps hippie, perhaps yuppie, perhaps simply fielder's choice. A by-product is the temporary spectacles which have flowed into the abandoned pavilions—avant-garde theaters, art exhibitions, a puppet show, a roller-skating rink.

Not far from this revitalized corner of Les Halles is one of the few holdovers from the old days—Montell, a restaurant opened by Marcel Montell in 1903, whose appearance has not changed since. It catered in its early days to market people alone, and so it served only one meal daily, which outsiders would have called lunch, but which was dinner for the night workers of the markets, who dined there at perhaps 11 a.m. when, after their feverish activity, Les Halles was slipping into littered somnolence. The place was tiny—a single room, with place for just one row of tables opposite the always crowded bar. True, there was an upstairs room, reached by a narrow corkscrew staircase, up which farmers struggled with straw mattresses they had brought in on their market wagons, to catch a little sleep after unloading, while their horses rested for the return trip.

of bone in the cuts used—half from the neck, for the flavor of the bones, half from the breast, for juiciness. Cut into chunks, and brown well in peanut oil over a high flame. You then add one onion and carrot, both medium sized, and both chopped fine. Stir well together and flour lightly. Pour in half a bottle of dry white wine with a little water. Add a bouquet garni, a table-spoon of tomato extract ("very flavorful than fresh tomatoes," says Chef Soulet), and salt and pepper. Soupeau No. 1 is then cooked over a medium flame for an hour.

Into saucepan No. 2 go 250 grams of ordinary small, white hard beans, the kind you may be accustomed to soaking overnight, but Soulet uses the new variety which doesn't require soaking. These are boiled in salted water, and require stirring. When the beans are well started, you add a sliced carrot and an onion with two cloves stuck in it. This cooks for an hour too, over a rather lower flame. The contents of your two saucepans are combined only at the moment of serving.

Alas, you may not be able to sample much longer Montell's haricot de monton, nor its petit oile aux lentilles, nor its quail with raisins, nor its pheasant terrine. It is doomed to go—just how soon no one knows. The entrance to an express subway will take its place. No doubt it will reopen somewhere else. But it can't be quite the same. Another landmark of Old Paris will have disappeared.

Montell, 6 Rue de la Réaule, Paris, 1. Telephone: 528-05-48. Lunch only. Closed Sundays, Mondays and August.

Attempt to Save Les Halles Scoffed

PARIS, June 17 (UPI)—The top civil officer for Paris, Prefect Marcel Diebolt, today called "a joke" U.S. financier Orrin Hein's attempts to save from destruction the pavilions of the old market. Les Halles, and described Mr. Hein as a "publicity specialist."

Russia For 5-Nation A-Parley

China Would Be Among Conferees

WASHINGTON, June 18 (UPI)—The United States is studying a new Russian proposal for a five-power nuclear disarmament conference and plans to consult its allies about the Kremlin initiative, the State Department said today.

Mr. McCloskey said the Soviet proposal called for a meeting of the United States, Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the People's Republic of China to consider the general subject of nuclear disarmament.

At these talks, which will be resumed in Helsinki July 8, the United States and Russia intend, according to the White House, to concentrate this year on getting an agreement to limit defensive nuclear missiles, while at the same time agreeing on "certain measures" to limit offensive systems.

State Department officials, for the moment, were at a loss to explain exactly why Russia had called for the five-power nuclear disarmament conference while the SALT talks were under way.

FBI Keeps Super-Secret Index Of All 'Potential Subversives'

WASHINGTON, June 18 (WP)—Unknown to the people or the Congress, the government maintains a super-secret listing of so-called potential subversives—a list which would be the basis for numerous arrests in the event of war or an "internal security emergency."

De Gaulle's Son Gives Portrait Of His Father—and Himself

By James Goldborough

PARIS, June 18 (AP)—Philippe de Gaulle, the general's only son, tonight broke a lifetime of silence to give probably the most intimate portrait ever drawn of his father and to describe the chagrin of a young man growing up in his shadow.

Philippe de Gaulle

Capt. de Gaulle, who will become rear admiral Sept. 1, spoke out on nationwide television and radio on the 31st anniversary of De Gaulle's London radio address, urging a beaten France to continue the resistance against Nazi Germany.

He described his father as being extremely disappointed over the defeat of the referendum two years ago and his sudden retirement. And he said the brusque departure had probably hastened his death.

But the most revealing parts of the broadcast were the glimpses into Capt. de Gaulle himself. At 49 Capt. de Gaulle is the same age as his father was in 1940, and the resemblance, especially in profile, is astonishing.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D., R.I., told reporters that he is drafting an amendment that declares Congress wants all troops out by July 4, 1972, without any mandatory features such as a cutoff of funds.

Senate Rejects Draft Limitation; Pastore Shapes New Vietnam Curb

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—New Senate moves to set a date for withdrawal of American troops from Southeast Asia emerged today after rejection by both House and Senate of similar attempts.

motion at exactly the same age at which his father was promoted from colonel to temporary brigadier general in 1940.

Then he added: "If I have accustomed myself for a long time to being the son of Gen. de Gaulle, I have not always been sure that my interlocutors have accustomed themselves."

Russians Mention But Belittle The SST Environmental Issue

By Bernard Gwertzman

MOSCOW, June 18 (NYT).—Ranking Soviet aviation officials today defended the importance of the supersonic transport plane and said American concern about possible environmental and health problems from such aircraft was unfounded.

In the first in-depth Soviet response to the criticism of the supersonic plane, Alexander F. Akysyov, Deputy Minister of the Civil Aviation Ministry, said the Soviet Union intended to go ahead with its Tu-144, which he said was "an integral element of technological progress."

Asked about sonic and smoke problems, Mr. Akysyov said these were being studied, but "I believe that this problem has been greatly contrived."

The Russians, who are vigorously seeking to sell the Tu-144 on the world market, against stiff competition from the Anglo-French Concorde, are clearly irritated by the fears expressed in the United States about the effect of sonic boom and about possible damage to the environment and health by the exhaust fumes of the supersonic craft flying at high altitudes.

Congressmen Ask Pentagon Cut of 438,500

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP).—The United States could reduce its armed forces by 438,500 men without endangering national security or international commitments, says a report released yesterday by a bipartisan group of congressmen.

Such a reduction could result in a saving of about $7 billion, said Rep. Abner Mikva, D., Ill., who prepared the report for Members of Congress for Peace Through Law, a bipartisan group of more than 100 senators and representatives.

Gets Back Pay, Clear Record Blacklisted FBI Agent Wins Federal Suit Against Hoover

By Jack Nelson
NEW YORK, June 18.—Former FBI agent Jack Shaw, forced to retire and then blacklisted for criticizing the FBI and Director J. Edgar Hoover, yesterday won settlement of a federal suit against Mr. Hoover.

Mr. Hoover agreed to expunge prejudicial remarks from Mr. Shaw's personnel records and to give him $12,000 in back pay. Mr. Shaw's suit, filed by the American Civil Liberties Union, accused Mr. Hoover of violating his constitutional rights.

After Sen. Kennedy first requested information from Mr. Hoover last Jan. 29, Mr. Hoover replied that Attorney General John N. Mitchell had advised him it would be inappropriate to give information while the matter was before the courts.

Mr. Shaw's suit charged that Mr. Hoover's action against him was "an arbitrary, capricious and vindictive act of personal retribution" prompted by a letter Mr. Shaw wrote to a professor that contained criticism of Mr. Hoover and the FBI.

The suit, which alleged that the blackballing of Mr. Shaw prevented him from getting another law enforcement job, asked for reinstatement, as well as for back pay and removal of prejudicial remarks.

Harris Tops U.S. Open by 1

By Lincoln A. Werden
ARDMORE, Pa., June 18 (NYT)—Merion has been called the thinking man's course and scholarly looking Lebron Harris Jr., of Stillwater, Okla., seems to fit the leader's role in appearance and ability.

Jack Nicklaus, the pre-tourney favorite, was at 69 with Bobby Nichols, while Lee Trevino had 70. Arnold Palmer needed a 73 and Tony Jacklin, of England, the first foreigner to win the U.S. Open title in 50 years, last year at Chaska, Minn., took a five-over-par 75.

When an alternate tee is used it is played at 188 yards. Consequently, the course was 5,928 yards yesterday.

He had never played the short but challenging layout before this week. Yet Harris, who won the National Amateur title in 1962, kept crucial second shots on the incoming nine within a yard of the flagstick at three greens.

Palmer's Bogey
It was one of the sturdiest shots Nicklaus hit and he smiled as he gave the club to his caddy.

"I've never broken 70 before in an Open," he said, "and this is my ninth try." Harris, after a 35 hole break, was shaky at the 15th hole with a par. He had a 15-foot birdie. Then wedge shots to within three and two feet accounted for birdies at the tenth and 11th. He drove into the creek at the 12th for a bogey, but he bagged birdies at the next two holes.

Smith Faces Newcombe In London Tennis Final

LONDON, June 18 (UPI)—Stan Smith, of Pasadena, Calif., the No. 4 seed at Wimbledon, today qualified for a men's singles final clash with Wimbledon champion John Newcombe of Australia in the London Grass Courts tennis championship.

Virginia Wade, 6-3, 6-8, and Mrs. Court Dowd, Ros Mary Casals of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-3. Gorman began when he left off yesterday against Laver and rocketed Smith early. Smith was broken in the eighth game to give Gorman a 5-3.

Royals' Drago Zeroes In on Angels

Twins 7, White Sox 6
George Mitterwald capped a four-run burst in the last of the 11th inning with his fourth hit of the game, a tie-breaking single, as Minnesota outlasted Chicago, 7-6.

Bill Freehan hit two doubles and a single and Norm Cash tripled to lead Detroit to a 4-3 triumph over Cleveland and snap Sam McDowell's six-game winning streak. Les Cain, who had to leave the game in the sixth inning with a sore pitching shoulder, bunted home the first Tiger run and gained his fifth victory.

Yastrzemski Leads Fall
NEW YORK, June 18 (UPI)—Carl Yastrzemski of Boston remained the top American League All-Star vote-getter, leading outfielders with 156,273 of the 275,000 ballots cast after the second week of voting.

Friday
Cubs, on Season High, Rout Cardinals, 15-5
CHICAGO, June 18 (AP)—Billy Williams, Norm Sauter, Jim Hickman and Brock Davis drove across three runs apiece as the Chicago Cubs exploded for their season scoring high with a 15-5 rout of the St. Louis Cardinals today.

ROWING—At Syracuse, N.Y., Washington, Pennsylvania and Rutgers advanced to the finals among the varsity eights at the Interstate championship regatta.

Hamilton Ended Floating Around With Giants

By Robert Lipsyte
NEW YORK, June 18 (NYT)—Steve Hamilton thought he was going to be a New York Yankee last season. The New York Yankees asked waivers on the 35-year-old pitcher, fully expecting, so they said, he would be passed across the American League and across the river.

SEATTLE, June 18 (NYT)—Marty Liquori ran the mile in 4:00.7 yesterday, and it was only a preview of coming attractions at the Nike College Athletic Association outdoor track and field championships.

Two Ferraris Are Damaged In Prix Trials
ZANDVOORT, the Netherlands, June 16 (AP)—Mario Andretti, of Nazareth, Pa., escaped unhurt in a spectacular crash at 200 kilometers an hour during the first day of practice for the Formula One Dutch Grand Prix today.

Two Ferraris Are Damaged In Prix Trials

Liquori, the two-mile defending champion, was joined in the mile final by Chris Mason, a Villanova teammate, who won his heat without straining in 4:00.8, and Hector Ortiz, the Brentwood, N.Y., athlete at Western Kentucky, who clocked 4:01.2.
